Introduction

The teaching of Sex and Relationships Education at Ash Cartwright and Kelsey School, using an integrated and consistent approach, is an important aspect of pupils' education. Sex and Relationship Education includes supporting young people in developing self-confidence in preparing for physical and emotional changes into adulthood. We believe that the teaching of Sex and Relationship Education should be shared with parents and be mutually supportive and complementary. It promotes an understanding of the range of family types and other people who contribute to providing children with the care, love and support they need to grow, develop and flourish,

In this document, Sex and Relationships Education relates to 'learning about physical, moral and emotional development.' It is about understanding the importance of family life, stable and loving relationships, respect, diversity, love and care and promoting the British value of tolerance. We do not use Sex and Relationships Education as a means of promoting any form of sexual orientation but we are an LGBT ambassador school with 3 trained members of staff. This provides children the opportunity to discuss issues around sexuality and gender. This links in with the Church of England guidance on VAGC (Valuing all God's children)

The policy has been developed to ensure that staff and parents or carers are clear about the statutory requirements regarding Sex and Relationships Education, and that the pupils receive their educational entitlement. Through implementation of this policy, the school will meet specific aspects of the legal and statutory requirements.

Every child is entitled to receive Sex and Relationships Education. It is our intention that all children have the opportunity to experience a programme of Sex and Relationships Education at a level which is appropriate for their age and physical development with differentiated provision if required.

The Moral and Values Framework

Sex and Relationships Education is required to be taught within a moral framework. Children will learn about moral values through all aspects of school life and in all curriculum areas, not just in Sex and Relationships Education. We aim to:

- help pupils develop sensitivity and respect for themselves and others;
- provide a friendly and caring environment in which children are able to ask questions and further their understanding;
- support pupils in taking responsibility for their actions and the consequences of their actions;
- provide equality of opportunity for all children in a caring community in which each individual is encouraged to make a valuable contribution.

Aims of Sex and Relationship Education

Taking account of the age, maturity and needs of the pupils, Sex and Relationships Education aims to:

- provide the knowledge and information to which all pupils are entitled;
- help children to develop feelings of self-respect, self-esteem, self-confidence, sympathy and empathy;
- provide the confidence to be participating members of society and to value themselves and others;
- prepare pupils for puberty and encourage them to take responsibility for their own actions;
- give them an understanding of reproduction and sexual development;
- give them an understanding of the importance of health and hygiene;
- develop and use communication skills and assertiveness skills to cope with the influences of their peers and the media;
- respect and care for their bodies;
- answer pupils' questions honestly and sensitively – referring the children to parents where appropriate;
- give them information on where individuals and families can get help and support.

Context

We teach Sex and Relationships Education in the context of the school's aims and values framework. Whilst Sex and Relationships Education in our school means that we give children information about sexual behaviour, we do this with an awareness of the moral code and values which underpin all work in school. In particular, we teach Sex and Relationships Education with the beliefs that:

- SRE is part of a wider personal, social, spiritual and moral education process;
- children should be taught to have respect for their own bodies;
- children should learn about their responsibilities to others, and be aware of the consequences of sexual activity;
- it is important to build positive relationships with others, involving trust and respect;

The Role of Parents

The school is well aware that the primary role in children's Sex and Relationships Education lies with parents and carers. We wish to build a positive and supporting relationship with the parents of children at our school through mutual understanding, trust and co-operation. In promoting this objective we:

- inform parents about the school's Sex and Relationships Education policy and practice;
- answer any questions that parents may have about the Sex and Relationships Education of their child;
- take seriously any issue that parents raise with teachers or governors about this policy or the arrangements for Sex and Relationships Education in the school.

The Role of the Headteacher

It is the responsibility of the headteacher to ensure that both staff and parents are informed about our Sex and Relationships Education policy, and that the policy is implemented effectively. It is also the headteacher's responsibility to ensure that members of staff are given sufficient training, so that they can teach effectively and handle any difficult issues with sensitivity. The Headteacher monitors this policy on a regular basis and reports to governors on the effectiveness of the policy.

The Role of the School and Other Members of the Community

We encourage other valued members of the community to work with us to provide advice and support to the children with regard to health education. Health professionals are expected to work within the school's Sex and Relationships Education policy and on the instructions of the headteacher.

Confidentiality

Teachers conduct Sex and Relationships Education lessons in a sensitive manner and in confidence. However, if a child makes a reference to being involved, or likely to be involved in sexual activity, or indicates that they may have been a victim of abuse, this will be dealt with in line with our child protection policy.

Answering Difficult Questions

If a child asks an explicit or difficult question, the staff will use their professional judgement in deciding the best way to answer it. This may be through individual work or discussion with the child. If the staff member is concerned, they can refer to the headteacher who can discuss the matter with the parent, or follow other appropriate procedures. The year 5 and 6 classes have an 'SRE Question box' in their classroom during the half term in which they are being taught SRE, so that they can ask questions anonymously.

Procedures for Withdrawal of Pupils

Parents and carers have the right to withdraw their child from some, or all, Sex and Relationships Education lessons, but not statutory Science lessons. However, should you be considering such a step, first talk it through with your child and their class teacher, and then, if necessary, contact the headteacher.

Children with AEN

It is up to the school to make sure that the needs of all pupils are met. This may mean more explicit teaching to ensure that children with additional education needs are properly included in SRE. This may mean additional support within lessons, small group or individual lessons and an adapting of resources to enable access. Parents may need to be consulted individually with regard to children with AEN.
